

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Methods to obtain genetic modifications of cells in histoculture are described. Modification is assisted by treating the histoculture with collagenase prior to 5 contacting the histoculture with the delivery vehicle for the desired gene. Hair follicles and other organized tissues can be modified in this way and then transplanted into intact recipients.